OFFICE OF THE DEPUTY DIRECTOR OF AGRICULTURE, BOTANICAL SECTION, BANGALORE.

Notice, dated 16th January 1936.

SHORT COURSE IN JAGGERY BOILING AND FURNACE BUILDING ON THE HEBBAL FARM DURING 1935-36.

A short course in Jaggery boiling and furnace construction will be held on the Hebbal Farm this year in February for a period of a fortnight. The courses will commence on the 3rd February 1936. Instructions will be given on the following operations by the officers mentioned against each.

1. Construction of the new fuel saving furnace.
   Details regarding materials used, cost of construction and the theory of heating juice—The Agricultural Engineer.
2. Harvesting, preparation of cane for milling—Farm Manager, Hebbal.
3. Fitting and working of the sugar-cane mills—The Agricultural Engineer.
4. Testing of the sugar-cane juice and liming operation—The Assistant Chemist.
5. Boiling of juice and preparation of jaggery—The Farm Manager, Hebbal.
6. Varieties of canes, their character and cultivation of cane—Senior Assistant Botanist.
7. Manuring of cane—The Agricultural Chemist.

As cane planting and general harvesting is also going on at present, visitors will have plenty of opportunity to gather much knowledge about sugar-cane cultivation during their stay on the Farm.

There is a well-equipped Hostel attached to the Mysore Agricultural School, on the Hebbal Farm and arrangements can be made for boarding at 12 as. per day. Lodging arrangements will be made either in rooms or in tents. On arrival on the Farm, a deposit of Rs. 12 should be placed with the Farm Manager for expenses. Those who intend attending the course may send in their names to the Farm Manager, Hebbal, three days prior to the commencement of the courses.
